Amazing things happen when diverse communities work together to create positive change. Together, we are making things right for our communities, our planet and our future.

Welcome!

We are at a pivotal time in history with an increasing reliance on universities to provide the necessary talent, research and innovation, in collaboration with local and international partners, to tackle the complex, global challenges we face including climate change, health and economic crises, inequality, and political conflict. When York was founded in 1959, we set out a vision to ensure that our diverse student body had access to a high-quality education at a research-intensive university committed to driving positive change. We provide you with an interdisciplinary education, flexible learning formats, and a host of entrepreneurial and experiential learning activities to ensure that you will have the knowledge and skills you need for success in a rapidly changing knowledge economy. York has a well-established reputation as a progressive and welcoming University connected to what matters. We look forward to having you join our remarkable community.

Land Acknowledgment

York University recognizes that many Indigenous Nations have longstanding relationships with the territories upon which York University campuses are located that predate the establishment of York University. York University acknowledges its presence on the traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations. The area known as Tkaronto has been care taken by the Anishinabek Nation, the Haudenosaunee Confederacy, and the Huron-Wendat. It is now home to many First Nations, Inuit and Métis communities. We acknowledge the current treaty holders, the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation. This territory is subject of the Dish with One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement to peaceably share and care for the Great Lakes region.
